The Metropolitan as a refuge, 1953

December 10, 2019 Dmitry Yurkov 0

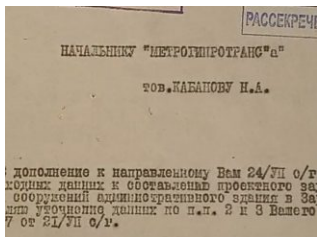

How many people is Moscow's largest bomb shelter officially designed for? We don't know this. And even if they did know, they would not have the right to tell you. [...]

The oldest dungeon in Moscow

December 1, 2019 Dmitry Yurkov 0

It seems that no one until now has really asked a simple question: which of the capital's underground structures is the oldest? Of course, some caveats are needed here. First, adequately assess [...]

Construction of a special facility in Zaryadye in the 1950s

November 30, 2019 Dmitry Yurkov 0

Another document on the "secret metro" line of the 1950s has been declassified in the federal archives. Apparently, even such a solid special structure took quite a long and painful time to build, [...]

Underground lecture about the 1st stage of the Moscow Metro

November 30, 2019 Dmitry Yurkov 0

On Saturday, December 7, 2019, in the "Below Ground Level" lecture hall in Bunker-703 there will be a meeting with the most famous metro blogger in Russia, official photographer of Metrostroy Alexander Popov [...]

Moscow will NOT fail 2.0

November 2, 2019 Dmitry Yurkov 0

The most mysterious venue of the capital's "Night of Arts" invites you to an updated version of last year's sensational exhibition! The project "Moscow will NOT fail" in the Bunker of the USSR Foreign Ministry consists of dozens of paintings [...]

The second season of the popular science lecture "Below Ground Level"

September 26, 2019 Dmitry Yurkov 0

The museum of modern fortification "Bunker-703" opens the second season of a popular science lecture devoted to underground structures. The topic of the opening lecture: "The era of brick construction in the history of Moscow sewerage." She will be presented [...]

Strange special object ChZ-703: the solution

August 6, 2019 Dmitry Yurkov 0

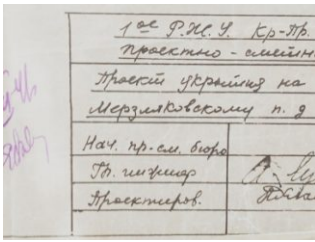

The Museum of Modern Fortification in the Moscow bunker ChZ-703 is one of the few places where the capital's underground structures are seriously studied. But (what a paradox!) the history of [...]

Lubyansky facility No. 201 NKVD-MVD-KGB

June 20, 2019 Dmitry Yurkov 0

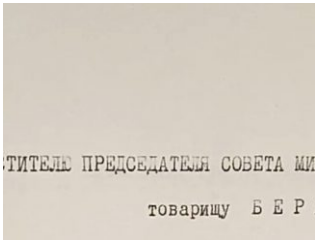

When idle talk about secret bunkers of the mid-20th century begins, Lubyanka and the KGB are the second most frequently mentioned. After Stalin. But how were things in [...]

Converting basements into shelters and shelters, 1941

June 4, 2019 Dmitry Yurkov 0

On July 22, 1941, German bombers attacked Moscow for the first time. By that time, the capital already had a number of civilian bomb shelters and bomb and gas shelters. But at all [...]

ZKP Ministry of Internal Affairs on Prospekt Mira, 1949

May 27, 2019 Dmitry Yurkov 0

The leadership of the Ministry of Internal Affairs explains to L.P. Beria why it is desirable to connect the main underground special facility of this department with the metro.
